Persons who cause by water pollution the destruction of or injury to wild animals of the state shall be liable to the state as provided by 2002 Iowa Acts, Senate File 2293, section 58. These rules establish the methodologies and criteria for evaluating the extent and value of the destruction or injury and establish the methods of compensation. If the person and the department cannot agree to the proper resolution of a particular case, the issues of liability, damage and compensation will be established through contested case proceedings, as provided by 571—Chapter 7.
